AHEPA
NATIONAL PROJECT

TO BE RECOGNIZED
AS A MAJOR DONOR
AT THE NEW
NATIONAL HELLENIC
MUSEUM

AHEPA in the National Hellenic Museum

The artifacts above are found in the permanent collection of the National Hellenic Museum.

AHEPA's New National Project - voted on at the July 2010 National Convention - is to become a major donor of the National Hellenic Museum.

The new National Hellenic Museum, scheduled to open late Fall 2011, is the only major museum in the United States dedicated to the story of Greek history, culture, and art from ancient times to today.

SUPPORT AHEPA NATIONAL PROJECT

At 40,000 square feet, the state-of-the-art facility holds an extensive collection and archives of more than 17,000 artifacts spanning thousands of years. Visitors of all ages will experience Greek history and culture through the words of storytellers past and present.

Its interactive exhibitions, Library, Oral History Center, and Education Center showcase the contributions of Hellenism, Greece, and Greek Americans to the world.

For yourself, for your children, and for generations to follow, help AHEPA be permanently recognized as a major donor to the National Hellenic Museum.
